We want to take some control of our community through our art," said La Salle. "People can see our work, and they can also engage with it.

Over the course of an interview, La Salle and Brown talked about their vision to have an outdoor venue for art within 20 months. It’s an innovative concept, she felt, and it would be a new venue for people to come together to see the art being created and to have a community space.

On Wednesday, thatsaturday plans to host an event to celebrate the launch of their new outdoor venue. A new venue for art, music, and community engagement.

"We are excited to be part of this community and to bring people together through art," said La Salle. "This is a unique opportunity to showcase the creative talents of our students and to provide a space for people to come together and enjoy the arts."
